Answer the Questions Correctly.

Today, Fikri and Sano play together in Fikri's house.

They play in the Fikri's room.

When Sano enters Fikri's room, Fikri turns on the air conditioner. Then Sano said, "No need to turn on the air conditioner. It is not too hot today. We can open the windows so we can still feel the breeze."

"Okay, then," said Fikri while turning off the air conditioner.

Sano opens the windows then. The breeze enters the room. They do not feel hot anymore.

By turning off the air conditioner when it is not really needed, we can save the electricity. The air conditioner needs electricity to be turned on. Electricity is an energy. So let's save the energy as long as we can!

QUESTIONS:

1. Is it a cool day today?

.....

2. Where do Fikri and Sano play?

.....

3. Do they open the window to feel the breeze?

.....

4. Does the air conditioner need electricity?
